Over One Hundred Thousand Dollars Pledged Yesterday.

"The World's" Personal Canvass Fund Now a Quarter of a Million.

Over one hundred thousand dollars was pledged to the World's Fair Guarantee Fund yesterday, which leaves something less than $700,000 to be secured in order to complete the fourth million.

The brewers' subscription of $500,000 was not sent in yesterday, as the returns from the several firms were not all received.

The Jewellers' Board of Trade subscribed a triffe over $15,000, and promise to increase the as soon as possible.

The annual meeting of the Manhattan Elevated Bailway Company was held yesterday, but contrary to expectation, nothing was done regarding a subscription to the Fund.

It is said that several of the steamboat lines and railroads would be heard from within a few days, and if this is so, the Guarantee Fund will be a surety.

Including the subscriptions received yesterdar, the books this morning showed the total amount pledged to be $3,358.166, with the brever's subscription yet to be heard from.

WHERE'S LILLIAN?

Miss Russell Reported to Have Eloped from Chicago and "The Brigands."

Miss Russell's Mother Says It's Too Absurd to Be True.

She Has Had a Surfeit of Foolishness, and Wouldn't Fly with Any Man,

A report from Chicago this morning that Lillian Russell, the fleshy and beautiful heroine of "The Brigands," had cloped with William C. Sanford set all dudedom on the tiptoe of ex-

The giddy young things, so the story went, were in Chicago last night when they decided to "cut and run."

Miss Russell was filling her role in "The Brigands" acceptably at McVicker's Theatre and Mr. Sanford was there to admire her. He is thirty-five years old. Lillian is not quite as old as that; at least she says she isn't, and she ought to know. The story that was sent out to startle the town to-day was to the effect that Mr. Sauford, pere, had sent a me-sage ordering his son to come home and leave that woman alone. hall sent a message ordering his son to come home and leave that woman alone.

This sensational piece of information may have startled some of the community, but it only caused ripples of merriment among the initiated, for Mr. Sanford has been running away with the fair Lillian for the last two years; that is travelling where she travelled, and they are the best of friends—

Mr. Sanford comes of a wealthy family, and is a millionaire in his own right.

He is a member of the great carpet manufacturing firm of Stephen Sanford & Sons, of which his father is the head.

He is a member of the Union Club and the Meadow Brook Kentiel Club.

He is not a strictly handsome fellow, but he is big and powerful, with a frank open face.

at Broadway and Thirty-fifth street, and Flynn was arrested for intoxication and taken to the Thirtieth street station, thence to Bellevue Hos-It was not until Nov. 6 that he returned to his home, so his brother Matthew says, and then he seemed very week, but in his right mind.

He told his brother the story of the assault, and said that he had been knocked down by three men, one of whom jabbed him in the eye with a case of windralls.

he is not a strictly handsome fellow, but he big and powerful, with a frank open face, ery determined-looking and possesses a stylish three men, one of whom jabbed him in the eye with a cane or umbrella.

He was taken sick on Monday, and Dr. Silver was called in, who said there was nothing the matter with his eye, except that he had a cold.

The following Wednesday he grew worse, and Dr. Silver said he had inflammation of the brain and put a mustard plaster on his head.

Martin died at 5.30 o'clock, and was conscious up to the time of his death.

About 10 o'clock this morning a young man, who gave his name as Henry Kramer and his address as Sixth street and Avenue B, called at 33 St. Mark's place and told the Flynns that he was an eye-witness of the attack upon Martin.

He said he was passing the corner of Thirty-very determined-looking and possesses a stylish black mustache.

His father knows full well that he is able to take care of himself, and would not dream of interfering with his anusement, especially where a woman was concerned.

Mr. Sanford has been on the best of terms with Lillian Russell for at least three years.

Two years ago last Summer his name first began to be generally spoken of in connection with hers, when they might be seen daily walking or riding together at Saratoza, where he had a string of racers. When she was playing here he had rooms at the St. James and the Victoria.

He said he was passing the corner of Thirtrifth street and Broadway on Oct. 28 about midnight, when he saw Martin speak to three men who stood on the corner, and a few minntes later saw him knocked down and kicked.

'I ran towards them, and when they saw me coming one of the men struck the prostrate man several times with a thin came which he carried, and the three then ran off.

'I would recognize any of the men if I saw them again. One in particular was a stout man with a red beard clipped close. He was the one who had the cane.

Cramer fully identified Flynn as the man who had been attacked, and said that as soon as the pelice came up he went away.

Flynn was sent first to the New York Hospital, where he remained for a day before he was transferred to Believne. He was held at both places as a prisoner, and according to the diagnosis made by the doctors, was suffering from Casino while waiting for Lillian to linish her act.

She lived at 102 West Twenty-ninth street, but her last address in town was 231 West Forty-third street.

Sanford is the man who was said to have slapped Freddy Gebhard's face in Delmomoo's a few years ago because the latter resented what he considered an aspersion on the fame of Lily Langiry.

Sanford was made famous even before that though, as the owner of Post Guard, the grand old steeplechaser who won twenty-the out of twenty-seven races at Sheepshead.

An Evening Wolld reporter this morning waited on Mrs. Cynthia Leonard, the majestic lady who enjoys the distinction of having assisted at Lillian's appearance into this wicked world.

"Kim away! No!" exclaimed Mrs. Leonard.

"How old is Mr. Sanford?"

"From the way he acts, about nine," said Mrs. Leonard, bitthely and promptly. "In point of fact, he is thirty-englit."

"He has been paying Lillian attentions for some time?" a-ked the reporter.

"Yes. He wants to become her manager. But Lillian will finish her engagement with Mr. Aronson, and then she will have an opera campany of her own. She has plenty of backers. I dare say this report was started by Mr. Sanford himself to convey the impression to managers that he had a grip."

One of Miss Russell's sisters entered at this moment and inquired what the talk was all about. When she was told the report she laughed. "Now they will say that Nell ran away to get even with Halton," she exclaimed.

YES, IT'S TEN CLUBS.

Brooklyn and Cincinnati Are in the National League Now.

As The Evening Wonto intimated upon good authority in its Sporting Extra of yesterday the National League is to consist next season of ten baseball clubs the American Association and have been admitted to the League.

Thus another disturbing circumstance enters into the baseball question for the coming year. The change of allegiance on the part of these two clubs can hardly be called a surprise, two ciubs can hardly be called a surprise, though when all arrangements had quietly been perfected the denouement came with a somewhat paralyzing suidenness.

Late in the afternoon of yesterday, while the deadlock in the Association was as fast as ever on the question of the new President, the resignations of Brooklyn and Cincinnati were placed in the liands of Chairman Von der Ahe. The Kansas City and Baltimore delegates at once left the meeting, and the session was adjourned until this marning.

Meanwhile the representatives of Brooklyn and Cincinnati went and joined the League magnates in council, and congratulations and champagne flowed freely.

When the League finally adjourned until this morning, its accomplished business included the following transactions:
